

MADISON

Madison is located just north of East Nashville, and many locals feel that it encompasses all that East Nashville used to be before undergoing its major gentrification. Madison is an eclectic, creative neighborhood that offers something for everyone.

Whether you're looking for a ranch-style property on a sizable lot, a starter home to begin your family, or an updated townhouse with lower maintenance, Madison has many options.

Madison is also home to a new and notable mixed-use development known as "Madison Station." Madison Station will bring retail, dining, residential, and commercial office spaces to the area, with an estimated completion date of 2027.

INSIDER TIP:

If you're looking for a great casual lunch, try the rarely talked-about Pinky Ring Pizza. While other pizza spots might get more publicity around Nashville, Pinky Ring's low-key profile and atmosphere make it feel like an instant classic. Enjoy the outdoor patio and typically short wait times!

